Green Guide for Exhibitors

As part of our Environmental Action Plan, the Association for Cultural Enterprises is committed to finding ways to work as sustainably as possible. We want to encourage our suppliers and members to also think about environmental impacts when planning their input at our events. The annual Trade Show is the largest event of the year, and therefore has the biggest impact, and the biggest potential for making sustainable choices.

Small changes by individual Exhibitors can help to make a big difference to the overall environmental impact of our Trade Show. Thank you for helping the Association to achieve the goals within our Environmental Action Plan.

We would like to encourage Exhibitors to think about the following five key areas when designing your stand and making your travel and set-up plans for the Trade Show.

Discover more about the steps ACC Liverpool are taking towards their Sustainable Strategy here.

Green Guide for Exhibitors

1. Preventing Waste

Please think carefully about packaging and reuse materials wherever possible. Think about using newspaper and cardboard wherever possible, and avoiding the use of plastics, polystyrene and styrofoam which take hundreds of years to biodegrade. Save the packaging you use to bring your products safely to the show and use it again to take them home.

We encourage the use of reusable water bottles and coffee cups. The ACC has water fountains readily available throughout the venue for you to use.

If you do not intend to take your show samples back with you please do not leave them behind for the ACC to dispose of. Consider giving these items away as samples instead.

2. Recycling

Please use the recycling facilities provided by ACC. There are recycling points all around the building for delegates to use for small items. Please choose materials which are easily and widely recyclable.

Green Guide for Exhibitors

3. Upcycling and Repurposing

When designing your stand, please think about using items which you will be able to use again in other circumstances, rather than buying items which will need to be disposed of afterwards. Consider also donating any leftover items or materials that could be used by a community group, school or library.

Think about using pieces of furniture, repainting fixtures and fittings to give them a new look, and fashioning displays from crates or boxes which might otherwise be disposed of.

4. Transport and Delivery

Using couriers or the postal service for your products, and public transport for your personal travel, can have a lower environmental impact.

There is parking on site, 1450 spaces are available with accessible bays and electric charging points on each floor. Available on a first-come-first-served basis.

Consider offsetting carbon emissions, calculate your booth's carbon footprint and invest in carbon offset programmes or initiatives to balance your environmental impact.

Green Guide for Exhibitors

5. Communications

Please think about how you plan to communicate with the delegates, and be sustainable in your choice of handouts and giveaways. Investigate using recycled paper and vegetable inks for anything which is printed.

Consider having a tablet or laptop available on your stand to show images, and take email addresses and send out follow up information digitally.

Think about ways to minimise your reliance on packaging. Using paper bags, or reusable totes for any samples / giveaways rather than plastic ones.

Make sure any changes you have made to make your business and/or products more sustainable is communicated with the delegates.

Consider making use of display graphics to show the steps you are taking and any milestones or achievements met. For example, becoming BCorp certified, highlighting your eco ranges or planting trees with every sale. It is a great conversation starter and shows your commitment to sustainability.

We would encourage you to make use of Swapcard and connect with your network using the conference app to avoid the reliance on producing business cards etc.

We know from delegate feedback that sustainability is high on the agenda for cultural enterprises, and many members are required to take sustainability issues into account when selecting suppliers and placing orders.
